Knowledge Consortium of Gujarat has started different online journals for publication of research articles, papers & case studies. To make these journals online and for review of the research papers before publishing online there was need for expert of the respective subject as an editor of the journals, as well as competent in computer field to operate and upload articles of these journals online.

Knowledge Consortium of Gujarat has assigned the following teaching faculties of different subjects for the above task. These faculties had worked hard to keep the journals update since April 2012.
